

We have over 70 years of Aviation history to share.

Walker Aviation

Looking ahead is learning about your past. Knowing where you have been can help you see where you're going.

Walkers Aircraft Mission Statement:

The common law of business balance which the English social reformer John Ruskin (1819-1900) worded over 100 years ago and which is as relevant today as it was at that time. There is hardly anything in the world someone cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper. And the people who consider price alone are that persons lawful prey. It's unwise to pay too much but it is worse to pay too little. When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot. It can't be done if you deal with the lowest bidder. It is well to add something for the risk you run and if you do that you will have enough to pay for something better

We can't always have the lowest price but we will always try to keep up our quality on our parts and services.

Shop Outlook and Goals

New ideas have always been a big part of our history. Where would we be without them?

It's worth-while to look at all new ideas and prove them out.

You might say we have the heart of a experimental homebuilder.

Experimental homebuilding over the years has come a long way from the day when Frank Christensen introduced one of the world's best and first homebuilt aircraft kits.

We would like to keep up with our history and keep new ideas on the books and moving. With or history of aircraft tooling and manufacture background new ideas can become a reality.

Like Reuel Call I have a dream of someday building an aircraft design of my own. People like Frank Christensen set the stage and opened the doors to the experimental world. Like Alice in Wonder Land sometimes your dreams Seem a little strange and impossible, but in the end things turn out right.
